

Accounting Song Lyrics

Title: The Language of Business

Every sale, every pay, every little spend,
Tells a story from beginning to end.
Accounting's the language businesses speak,
Recording transactions week by week.
It shows what's earned and what we owe,
Helps decisions as we grow.

Chorus:

Numbers tell a story clear and bright,
Assets, debts, and equity right.
Balance the books, it's plain to see,
That's accounting's harmony!
Learning's fun, and we excel,
With SEKAEL here to guide us well.

Verse 2:

First, we record each money move,
Bookkeeping makes the records smooth.
Then we organize—classify and add,
So the data's clear, not just a pad.
Finally, we report what all this means,
In statements showing business scenes.

Chorus:

Numbers tell a story clear and bright,
Assets, debts, and equity right.
Balance the books, it's plain to see,
That's accounting's harmony!
Learning's fun, and we excel,
With SEKAEL here to guide us well.

Bridge:

Assets are what the business owns,
Liabilities—debts and loans.
Equity's what's left to claim,

The owner's share, the lasting name.
Add revenue, subtract expense,
Profit appears—it all makes sense!

Final Chorus:

Numbers tell a story clear and bright,
Assets, debts, and equity right.
Add it up, the rule is key,

Assets = Liabilities + Equity!

Learning's fun, and we excel,
With SEKAEL here to guide us well.
